

Views on future research

We're interested to hear your views on potential new research on COVID-19 and the Aberdeen Children of the 1950s (ACONF) study.

The last year has changed our lives dramatically – how we work, connect with family and friends, look after our health and go about our daily lives. As researchers, we are keen to understand how the changes brought about by the pandemic have affected lives of the study participants.

We would value your opinion on how to prioritise these research questions and would also like to hear your thoughts on any topics you feel are important.

Required

We are interested in a number of topics, please tell us whether you think these are of high or low priority to research:

1. Understanding why some people are less likely to take up the COVID-19 vaccine *
